

Amanda Bryan

Associate
Direct Dial: 503.499.4403
amanda.bryan@bullivant.com

Amanda Bryan is a business law attorney who represents clients in transactional and litigation matters. Prior to joining Bullivant, Amanda worked as a business and intellectual property attorney and civil litigator at a Portland-area law firm. She has experience in preparing opinion letters, drafting pleadings and motions in state and federal court, and has developed procedures to improve and streamline the discovery and filing processes.

In addition to her work at the firm, Amanda also teaches a graduate level course in Book Publishing at Portland State University. The course is designed to prepare the program's students to identify legal issues that arise in the publishing industry and covers everything from entity formation to infringement lawsuits. Amanda received her Juris Doctorate with a Certificate in Intellectual Property from Lewis & Clark Law School.

Prior to law school, Amanda received a Master's Degree in Writing with an emphasis in book publishing. She ran a digital publishing services company for six years and became inspired by conversations she was having with publishers and authors around the problems of copyright law in a digital context.

Practice Areas

Commercial Litigation
Business & Corporate Law
Intellectual Property

Education

Lewis & Clark Law School - J.D., Intellectual Property Certificate, magna cum laude, 2017

- National Jurist Law Student of the Year

Portland State University - Master's in Writing: Book Publishing, 2011
Brigham Young University - B.A., Music, 1997

Bar Admissions

- Oregon, 2017

Awards and Honors

- Named National Jurist Law Student of the Year (2017)
- Recipient of Oregon State Bar Business Law Section's Outstanding Corporate Law Student Scholarship (2017)

Publications and Presentations

- Co-Author, "The Law (in Plain English)[®] for Publishers," Allworth Press (2019)

- Co-Author, "The Law (in Plain English)[®] for Small Businesses" Allworth Press (forthcoming July 2019)
- Co-Author, "The Law (in Plain English)[®] for Nonprofit Organizations," Allworth Press (forthcoming October 2019)

Outside Interests

Outside of the office, Amanda enjoys reading, writing, gardening, and spending time with her family.